Chair:

Amy Conwell

Dear CUPE New Brunswick,

Secretary-Treasurer:

Allie Devlin

The workers of CUPE 3902 join in solidarity with the nearly 22,000 CUPE NB members who are still without a new collective agreement in your current fight to ensure fair wages and improved working conditions, and quality public services for the people of New Brunswick through strike action.

Vice Chair, Unit 1:

Oscar Bisot

Vice Chair, Unit 3:

Jamie Ashby

Public sector jobs have been under attack for decades across all Canadian provinces. Premier Higgs is attempting to impose austerity wages onto overworked and already underpaid public sector workers. At the start of the COVID-19 pandemic, many of the workers now on strike were praised as “frontline heroes.” Higgs’ attempt to gut the public sector now shows the government’s true colours: they think the working people of New Brunswick are disposable. This is unacceptable.

Vice Chair, Unit 5:

Christopher Landon

Vice Chair, Colleges:

Dan Brielmaier

Everyone deserves high-quality elder and health care, access to education and other essential services in their communities. After twelve years of suppressed wages and unacceptable working conditions, the workers of CUPE NB joined hand in hand to demand that enough is enough. You are showing the collective power of the labour movement.
